Finally Children Brought Back to France, Family

PARIS, Tues. Five months after their kidnapping and disappearance into Spain, the Finaly orphans began life in France again over the weekend at the country estate of Andre Weil, French Jewish leader and wartime underground hero.

THE ABE SICREE FOREST DEDICATED

The children were brought back by Mademoiselle Ribiere, representative of Cardinal Gertier.

Dr. S. Lowy of the Jewish National Fund and former Australian Director of the Fund, is shown speaking at the ceremony when many Australian visitors saw the Abe Sicree Forest in Israel dedicated.

Among those who may be are Mr. "Pixie" Ernest, formerly of Melbourne, now of Kfar Hanasi, Mr. & Mrs. J. Yoffe, Mr. M. Isaacman and Rabbi Goldman at table, Rabbi Avida (Zlotnik) standing with bent head near the flag.

Mr. P. Rosenkrantz was among those present.

"Remember Brownshirts"

-- Says German Periodical

FRANKFURT (W.J.A.): "Gegenwart," a German bi-monthly publication, attacks the new law governing political rallies recently passed by the German Bundestag for not containing a clause for banning the wearing of special uniforms.

"Everyone should still remember the brown-shirts and the black corps, in addition to the brass knuckles and belts, which once terrorised the people," the paper states.

Neo-Nazis, Communists Join Forces Against Reparations

VIENNA, Weds. The Syrian Ambassador, acting on behalf of all Arab States, formally protested to the Austrian Government yesterday against its reparations negotiations with Jewish organisations.

A Government spokesman said the protest will not affect the negotiations.

Meanwhile, Neo-Nazis and Communists are joining forces here to fight the payment of reparations to the Jews.

The Communist Association of Austrian Resistance Fighters and Victims of Fascism sharply attacked reparations, as did the Neo-Nazi organ Rundschau.

DR. GOLDMANN'S VIEWS
In Israel, Dr. Nahum Goldmann hoped that the Austrian negotiations would not be bogged down in petty bargaining.

He said: "It is for the Chancellor and his Government to lay down a policy and show the world that Austria is determined to make a real effort to undo the wrongs and assist the legitimate claims of tens of thousands of Jewish victims of Nazi persecution."

Ministers Plant Trees in Israel

TEL AVIV, Weds. The 52 ministers of the South African Dutch Reform Church who visited Israel departed from here a fortnight after their arrival.

The group yesterday planted 40 saplings in Tzoran village near Jerusalem, as a symbol of friendly relations between Israel and South Africa.

Prior to their departure, the group sang a special song prepared by one of its members in which Israel and the Israelis were hailed.

MAPAM'S DOMINATION OF UNION ENDS

JERUSALEM, Weds. Mapam's eight year domination of the Metal Workers' Union ended when Mapai won 56 per cent. of the votes for the Executive, compared with 45 per cent last year.

Jordan Military Commanders Show Goodwill

TEL AVIV, Weds. At a meeting of Israel-Jordan military commanders yesterday, the latter showed goodwill when the question of action against infiltration was discussed.

Today, the Israeli Chief of Staff (Rav. Aloof Makiff) welcomed this spirit of goodwill and said that if Jordan fully implements its obligations then there were chances of improvement in the security situation.

Israel-Arab Peace Needs Territorial Status Quo

TEL AVIV (JTA)—Peace between Israel and the Arab states was possible only if there was a territorial and demographic status quo. Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett told the Knesset when he wound up the debate on the Foreign Office budget.

The budget was passed with a large majority.

Referring to the Arab refugees problem, the Foreign Minister said that Israel saw no solution to the problem even if some part of the refugees were returned to Israel.

He pointed to the conflicting slogans in use by some circles which said, on the one hand, that the refugees must be settled in the Arab countries, and, on the other hand, that part of them should be returned to Israel.

"One must not feed the refugees with false hopes and divert their attention from a situation from which there is no outlet," he declared, adding that until there was peace Israel would oppose the despatching of arms to those peace.

They would oppose the arming of the Arabs because those arms would be aimed against Israel.

JERUSALEM REMAINS ISRAEL'S CAPITAL

On the subject of Jerusalem, Mr. Sharett said there was no change in the city's status as Israel's capital.

The sacredness of Jerusalem was deeply rooted and "we are ready to die for it. Jerusalem is dearer to us than anything in the world."

"There is no discrepancy between Israel's sovereignty over Jerusalem and international requests concerning the holy places within the city."

"We know our responsibility for the holy places within New Jerusalem. Israel has declared many times that it accepts responsibility for their immunity, for their safeguarding, for providing free access to them and we have honoured the holy places within its territory."

He reminded the House for the internationalisation of the undertaking contained in the holy places on condition the armistice agreement to not undermined and also on Walling Wall, the Tomb of condition that Jordan agrees Rachel and the cemetery on to the internationalisation of the Mount of Olives.

Jewish Committee to Watch Fascist Groups

MONTREAL (JTA): A widely based Jewish committee, to keep close watch on activities of Fascist minded immigrant groups in Canada, will be set up shortly.

Riley's Successor Arrives

TEL AVIV (JTA)—Major Vagn Bennike, who is succeeding General Riley as United Nations chief in Palestine, arrived in Jerusalem and immediately entered into a lengthy conference with Riley.

Later they were joined by members of the United Nations staff.

As soon as General Bennike had acquainted himself with the local situation, he is expected to embark on a series of visits to Middle Eastern capitals.

Jew Acting Chief Justice of South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (JTA): Appeal Court Judge Leopold Greenberg has been appointed Acting Chief Justice of the Union of South Africa during Chief Justice Centlivres long leave.

This position is the highest ever held by a Jew in the history of South Africa. Judge Greenberg was the youngest judge ever appointed to the South African bench when he was named 29 years ago.

This was decided at a recent meeting in Toronto of representatives of the Canadian Jewish Congress and B'nai Brith, it was reported here by the Congress.

The new group will include representatives of B'nai Brith and the CJC as well as representatives of other Jewish groups.

The decision to establish such a unit was taken after it was reported that a wreath had been placed at Toronto's City Hall in honour of Josef Tiso, head of the Nazi puppet State of Slovakia who was responsible for the deportation and murder of tens of thousands of Slovakian Jews during the Nazi occupation.

Other pro-Fascist activities have been reported among recent Rumanian immigrants.

In this city, several Ukrainian groups including a veterans organisation, recently held a public memorial service for Simon Petlura, Ukrainian nationalist general responsible for the massacre of tens of thousands of Jews in the Ukraine in 1918-20.

Two years ago a similar public meeting was held in Toronto.

Finaly Boys Back

It has been reported that the Finaly boys have been returned to France and restored to their family.

This would sound the happy ending to a sordid story of physical as well as spiritual kidnapping.

But there are afterthoughts following closely on the heels of the announcement of their return.

The first of these is a speculation whether they have been turned to hatred of their relations and their ancestral heritage... this has happened to a Belgian girl who has just been restored to her Jewish family, including a mother and older sister.

The second is nullification of a Cardinal's word that he did not know where the Finaly boys were, for soon after the French Supreme Court of Appeals brought down its ruling that Mademoiselle Brun had no legal right to the Jewish children, the Cardinal sent his representative into Spain to bring the children back into France.

The third is, How many other Jewish children have been similarly kidnapped, and how many are now lost to us forever?

The general issue of kidnapping of children must not be allowed to sink into limbo because the two Finaly boys have been returned.

Letter to The Editor

Sir — I doubt very much whether the Federal German Republic has chosen a Jew for Consul-General in Victoria in order to break down the trade barrier between Jews and Germans.

The German Government is too well-informed concerning the feelings on the subject of the majority of decent Jews throughout the world.

Rather, it would seem, that the Federal Republic hopes to gain a propaganda weapon in its efforts to retain in its service the scum of the Nazis, and to do so respectfully.

Most people will know that the Government of the Bonn Republic consists to a large extent of former, notorious Nazis and that the Foreign Ministry, for example, consists of 85 per cent of former Nazis.

In March 1952, the Bonn Parliament, mainly due to pressure from abroad, established an Investigation Commission which investigated the records of exactly 21 of the 542 officials in the Ministry.

One year later, Professor Hallstein, West German State Secretary for Foreign Affairs, reported to Parliament, that no action against these men had been taken.

This decision was taken, despite the fact that dozens of these men can be classed as murderers and some of them as mass murderers. I shall quote only two examples. Many more cases exist, all of them, I am sure, are well known to Dr. Aschner.

There is, for example, the case of Dr. Melchers, who is a leading official in the Personnel department of the West German Foreign Ministry.

Evidence was given at the Nuremberg War Crimes Trials that Dr. Melchers was directly responsible for the gassing of 900 Jewish children.

Then there is the case of Dr. Lehr, Minister for the Interior of the Federal Republic.

Dr. Lehr, as Oberbürgermeister of Düsseldorf issued the most terrible edicts against Jews in Germany as early as March 1933.

I can give particulars to anyone interested.

Then there is the case of Dr. Achenbach, chairman of the Foreign Policy Commission of the West German Free Democratic Party, one of the parties represented in the Bonn Coalition Government.

Dr. Achenbach appeared recently as Defence Counsel for arrested Nazi-plotters.

That is nothing in comparison with what he did in 1943.

Government Sends Out First Orders for German Goods

COLOGNE, (JTA). Israel last week sent out the first batch of orders for $8.5m. worth of goods to be furnished by German manufacturers under the reparations treaty concluded in Luxembourg last September.

The placing of the orders, through the Israel Purchasing Mission here, follows on the heels of the formal approval by the Mixed German-Israel Commission of the agreement reached last week about the procedures to be followed in ordering, delivering and paying for reparations goods.

It is expected that shipments will begin within the next few months.

Basic metals account for $4.5m., or more than half of the total, with rolling mill products, such as structural steel, bar steel and sheet plates constituting by far the largest category.

Orders for semi-finished products made of such non-ferrous metals as aluminium, copper, brass and lead rank second, totalling $1.2m. Drawn and cold-rolled iron and steel products, such as cold-rolled sheet iron, drawn wire and structural steel netting.

TWO YEARS' PIG IRON

Lesser amounts have been earmarked for 2,800 tons of pig iron, a quantity which is the total allotment for the next two fiscal years; and for foundry products such as die-castings and malleable cast iron.

No orders have yet been placed for machinery and other products of the steel manufacturing industry.

Orders with a face value of almost $3.8m. have gone out to suppliers of basic chemicals needed by Israel's industry and agriculture.

Israel to Have 'Same' Amount of Aid

WASHINGTON, (JTA): The House Foreign Affairs Committee last Friday made known, in reporting out the Mutual Security bill, that Israel will receive the "same" amount as during the two previous years.

"For Israel," the report said, "the content of the programme will be the same as it has been for the two previous years."

Last year Israel received $70,000,000, while the sum for the year before last was $65,000,000.

Since the amounts for the two years differ, it is thought here that the committee refers mutual security administrator to investigate the position of the Arab refugees and to report within ninety days of the adoption of the act.

The mutual security administration is also required by the Bolton provision to consult on the Arab refugees with the Foreign Affairs Committees of both the Senate and the House.

ence means that the amount for Israel for the 1954 fiscal year will be somewhere between the two figures.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the bill introduced by Representative Francis P. Bolton on behalf of the Arab refugees has been incorporated into the mutual security legislation.

This provision requires the mutual security administrator to investigate the position of the Arab refugees and to report within ninety days of the adoption of the act.

The mutual security administration is also required by the Bolton provision to consult on the Arab refugees with the Foreign Affairs Committees of both the Senate and the House.

ROUNDABOUT WITH PAMELA RUSKIN.

SPOTLIGHT

This week our spotlight falls on an absolutely real guaranteed genuine prima donna from La Scala Opera of Milan. What's more, Madame Emilica Vera looks unbelievably like the picture of a prima donna so beloved by novelists and playwrights.

She is a big woman — statuesque is the word for her—with flashing brown eyes that darken at the least suggestion of sorrow, grow misty with nostalgia and dance gleefully when she is amused.

Her hand movements are dramatic, carving arcs in space or fluttering sideways to illustrate a point. Her speaking voice is rich and rolling emerging from her strong throat with the dark melodramatic highlights or pouring out an eager flood of words when she talks of her life as a grand opera singer.

There is nothing stilted or cold or restrained about our prima donna. All the world is her stage. She is kindly, warm hearted, excitable, exuberant and very much a personality.

Emilica Vera's name is famous in Italy to where she came from Bucharest at the age of nineteen. She has sung leading dramatic soprano roles all over Italy, but for many years the Scala Milano was her headquarters.

After the war she toured Germany singing to many Jewish organisations. In Israel she gave fourteen concerts and the critics were tremendously impressed with the power and beauty of her voice and the truly remarkable artistry of her control.

Now she has come to Australia and we are fortunate. Her first concert will be at the Assembly Hall in conjunction with well-known concert pianist Raymond Lambert on July 28. After that she hopes to give a couple of Jewish charity concerts.

Why did she leave Italy? "In Mussolini's Italy the fascists were top dogs.... The opera manager of La Scala was a fascist but he didn't worry because I am a Jewess; he was too self-satisfied and important to worry.... After the war he is still in charge, but the fascists are not on top officially. He is not so secure or so popular. He looks around for trouble. He is more spiteful and he makes life miserable for a Jewish artiste.... And everywhere in Europe the fascists are becoming ever more dangerous and powerful...."

A shrewd woman Madame Vera, born in what is today an iron curtain country, she wants to be well away from those authorities that might declare her Italian papers null and void and claim her as a citizen.

Madame Emilica Vera intends to carry on her singing career in Australia as a teacher and on the stage. Her experience should prove invaluable to our young singers.

NURSERY NEEDS NAME

Twenty-eight Jewish children—some orphans, some with parents unable to care for them—have been given security and affection, Jewish education and physical comfort in the Frances Barkman House in Balwyn. A loyal band of women, taking a great interest in the children, run the house under the auspices of the Australian Jewish Welfare and Relief Society. A special Social Group works to raise funds for it.

It is a fine home, comfortable, immaculate and pleasing. The children are a happy, healthy, noisy bunch of youngsters who, thanks to the House Committee headed by the President Mrs. S. Friesner, much of the individual care and interest that they would receive if they lived with their families.

So far the Frances Barkman House has had to refuse urgent pleas to take in babies

RETURNED ORPHAN SAYS:—

"I Hate Everything Jewish"

PARIS (JTA): French Jewish community leaders were shocked at fresh reports from Brussels describing the return to her family of a Jewish war orphan whose case closely parallels the Finaly affaire in France.

Thirteen-year-old Helene Szpitman was returned to her aunt after having been kidnapped in 1946 by the Catholic family which was entrusted with her safe keeping during the war when her parents were deported.

Hidden since 1946 in various Catholic convents and other places in Belgium, the child was finally awarded to her aunt as legal guardian, in a Brussels court decision this week.

Today, according to word received here, Helene has been indoctrinated in the Catholic faith that she refuses to take off the cross around her neck.

Asked about her feelings on returning to her aunt and older sister, Helene was quoted as saying: "I hate everything Jewish."

It was feared that the Belgian child's answer is one which the Finaly orphans may give.

Unofficially the view is accepted here that the Finaly youngsters have probably received at least as much indoctrination in Catholicism as Helene Szpitman did.

RETURNED TO MELBOURNE

Mr. S. Oshlack has returned to Melbourne after a visit to Israel.

He saw many religious institutions there, and visited some of the Kibbutzim.

He saw many Australians visiting Israel at the same time. Mr. Oshlack was very impressed by the Jewish State. An interview will appear in our next issue.

KOSHER MEAT: RACKET OR WHITE ELEPHANT?

By ROBERT KAHN

Is Kosher meat too expensive? Jewish housewives have long felt that it is.

MIVAKEER:

Between You and Me

ISRAEL NOT YET SAFE

Israel is not yet safe from its neighbourly enemies. It has been reported by Germany's largest news-magazine "Der Spiegel" that "Otto Remer, who was promoted from major to major-general for his key role in crushing the 1944 plot against Hitler, and who was the Jew-baiting co-leader of the neo-Nazi Socialist Reich Party until its dissolution last year, is being groomed to train Egyptians in guerrilla warfare against the British."

The ruling of a German judge that "Remer has not disproved charges of having been a coward during the war" will be buried under the exalting epithets that will crown his efforts for the Egyptians—should he succeed.

The sufferers will be the Israelis if he is allowed to achieve his aim. As a Jew-baiter, there is no doubt that he has his eye on an ultimate excursion into Israel territory.

The issue raises the whole question of what the Nazis and the Army/Nazis are doing in post-war Germany.

The "noisy disturbances" (in Berlin) that marked the German premiere of "Silver Tasse," a play by the Irish dramatist Sean O'Casey, last week were aimed at the producer, Fritz Kortner, the Viennese Jew who has done so much for the modern theatre.

This is only one out of many recent signs that could be quoted to show that organised anti-Semitism is far from dead or inconsiderable in Germany.

A strong Israel may ward off predatory excursions by Remer-led Egyptians. It may also in the long run exert an influence tending to curb manifestations of a virulent anti-Semitic kind.

WASTING TIME

A certain gentleman has been wasting the time of a number of members of the community by telephoning them for hours at a stretch. He has endeavoured to persuade them to oppose the Board of Deputies' resolution for united services on special occasions.

In his excitement he bandies around such expressions as "for the sake of God and your parents" oppose the motion because if Rabbi Sanger is seen in an orthodox synagogue the youth will be lost.

This sort of hysteria is harmful for the community as a whole, for it would drive a great wedge between Jew and Jew, and its motive power is ignorance, that dark force that caused the antis-de-fe of Jews as well as witches in the middle ages.

Self-righteousness is an evil for the Jewish community, as well as for the individual victims of it. It sets up authority quite arbitrarily, thereby ignoring Jewish traditions eschewing authority as such. Warring authorities mean a divided house, and the common enemy triumphs against the divided house.

Until two years ago we had a united community, and peace and shalom were facts, and not the sole prerogative of any one person claiming to be the only begetter thereof and sole user.

Let us go forward into whatever the years may bring, united as friends, and not snarling at each other like the beasts of prey.

But the Kashruth Commission of Victoria is not to blame. Kosher butchers pay the Commission only five eighths of a penny for every gross pound of meat slaughtered.

After allowing for wastage, this works out at no more than a penny per lb. in the retail price paid by the customer.

That penny pays the entire cost of the supervision exercised by the Kashruth Commission.

The major item of these supervision costs is the wages for the supervisors ("shomrim") who, so the rabbis insist, have to be in attendance at some of the kosher butcher shops.

NO PROFIT

Part of the penny goes towards paying off the £3,600 casting pen which the Kashruth Commission had built a few years ago when Melbourne Jewry was in danger of being deprived of kosher beef and veal unless a proper casting pen was made available.

In 1952, the pennies collected by the Kashruth Commission added up to some £2,100.

This was just about enough to let the Commission break even on its meat activities after making reasonable provision for interest payments and reduction of the principal owed for the pen.

Even if the Kashruth Commission were reaping a fat profit from its surcharge, there could be no blinking the fact that it taxes your pound of meat only by a penny. The real slug is elsewhere.

It is the kosher butcher himself who slaps on all the other extra price; because as far as he is concerned the pen and the supervision for which the Kashruth Commission charges are only the beginning of the extra cost of kosher meat.

What are these other extras?

Well, for one thing, there are the shochtim, whose wages are higher than ordinary slaughtermen's, because of the shochet's special skills. Moreover the shochet can sometimes only be employed as a part-timer, and often that means higher casual rates of pay.

DOUBLE FEES

But what really bumps up the cost of kosher killing is something you would never think of unless you worked in the meat industry yourself: The extra amount in fees paid to the abattoirs out of which the slaughtermen assisting the shochet are paid.

The reason why the abattoirs fee for kosher killing is so much higher than for treifah killing is that the industrial award for slaughtermen prescribes piecework rates for killing cattle the kosher way that average out to nearly double the piece-work rates for killing the same animals by the captive bolt system.

DOUBLE AGAIN

But that is not all! Because under Jewish Law the hindquarters of the animal are discarded as treifah, kosher butchers are forced to re-sell these parts to their non-Jewish colleagues who, understandably, are not prepared to pay the half-share of the extra cost of kosher killing. Consequently the whole cost has to be borne by the front-half, which makes the killing cost not twice but four times its treifah equivalent!

Sometimes not only the hindquarters but the whole carcass has to be re-sold on these terms after having been killed by the expensive kosher method. This happens when the dead beast is declared treifah because of some previously unsuspected blemish or minor ailment (although still passed as fit for human consumption by the Health Commission).

MORE EXPENSES

To reduce the likelihood of this happening, only prime animals are normally selected for kosher killing. This in itself tends to raise the average price (but also the average quality) of kosher meat.

Another extra item are the wages that have to be paid for the labour of porging or de-veining the carcasses, as required by kashruth.

Yet another way in which the cost of kosher meat goes up in comparison with treifah meat arises from the marketing procedures for killing stock:

At the stockyards there are cheaper weekdays and dearer weekdays (due to the exigencies of transporting cattle). Whereas non-kosher butchers can take advantage of this by intensifying their slaughtering on the cheaper days so as to partly tide them over the dearer days by keeping meat stock:

New JNF Appointment

It has been announced by the Executive of the Jewish National Fund that the position of General Secretary of the Jewish National Fund of Victoria, which has been vacant for several months, has now been filled by the appointment of Mr. Nathan Beller from Sydney.

Mr. Beller, who has played a prominent part as Honorary Worker of the JNF in NSW.

MR. N. BELLER

was particularly connected with the activities of the JNF Suburban Committee of Kingsford - Maroubra. For some time he occupied the position of Organising Secretary of the "Aid for Israel Organisation" in Sydney and in that capacity was responsible for placing that organisation on a sound basis.

Prior to settling in Sydney, Mr. Beller lived in Palestine before the establishment of the Jewish State, where he occupied responsible positions as Industrial Chemist with the Haifa Oil Refineries and also temporarily with the Police Force.

Within the general framework of intensified JNF work

Mr. J. YOFFE PLANTS A TREE

Mr. J. Yoffe is here shown planting a tree in the Abe Sicree Forest in Israel, in honour of the late Mr. Abraham Sicree, communal leader, Victorian President of and indefatigable worker for the Jewish National Fund.

Impressive Ceremony at Abe Sicree Forest Planting

In the Hills of Jerusalem on Sunday, June 14, a representative gathering assembled to pay tribute to the man who had rendered such outstanding service to the cause of Israel, the late Abe Sicree of Melbourne.

Following his death, his Australian friends, under the leadership of Mr. Syd Gordon of Melbourne, had generously contributed towards this project which will enable 10,000 trees to be planted in a forest on the slopes of the hills around the Holy City to bear the name of Abe Sicree.

The Jewish National Fund with which Abe Sicree had been most closely linked, was represented by a delegation headed by Dr. S. Lowy.

The Jewish Agency and Keren Hayesod sent official delegations. WIZO was represented by its World President Mrs. Rebecca Sieff, and the settlement of Kfar Hanassi by Mr. Y. Ernest, formerly of Melbourne.

Others present included Rabbi Aviva (Zlotnik), Mrs. Kate Gluckman and a number of visitors from Australia.

The Federal Executive of the Jewish National Fund was officially represented by Rabbi L. M. Goldman and Mr. J. Yoffe.

After the unveiling of the Forest Tablet by Rabbi Goldman and Mr. Yoffe, the Rabbi said the El Maale Rachamim and Kaddish. The initial trees were then planted by Dr. S. Lowy, Rabbi Goldman, Mr. & Mrs. Yoffe, Rabbi Aviva, Mrs. Sieff, Mrs. Gluckman, Mrs. Nemenoff and others.

After the plantings Dr. Lowy spoke about the great personality of the late Abe Sicree and his unparalleled devotion to the cause of the Jewish National Fund.

Rabbi Goldman eulogized the late Mr. Sicree as one of the leading Jews of Australia.

Mr. Yoffe supplemented Rabbi Goldman's speech by referring to his long association with the late Mr. Sicree in JNF work in Australia.

The last speaker was Mr. Ernest, formerly of Melbourne representing the Australian Chalutzim of Kfar Hanassi.

The Hatikvah concluded the unforgettable ceremony which perpetuated the name of Abe Sicree in the land which he loved so dearly.

First Sponsored British Migrants

The first two migrants from Britain sponsored by the Australian Federation of Jewish Welfare Societies arrived in Australia last week on the "New Australia".

Misses Hilda Besser and Helen Godfrey are looking forward to their new homes with considerable excitement.

Miss Besser is a cutter and designer, and Miss Godfrey a clerk. Both have jobs and accommodation awaiting them in Sydney.

The Jewish Welfare Societies are doing vital work in the field of migrant settlement, sponsorship and rehabilitation and with the drying up of the pool of Jewish migrants in Europe, they have turned their attention to the numbers of Jewish people who would like to come to Australia from Britain but need assistance to do so.

Prof. Goldman on Dead Sea Scrolls

A lecture on a very interesting subject will be held by Prof. M. D. Goldman at the Kadimah on Sunday, July 12.

The topic of the lecture is "The Dead Sea Scrolls and their Importance for Bible Research".

A big literature is already written by scholars, archaeologists, palaeographers and others about the scrolls found by an Arab goatherd 5 years ago. Heated discussions were raised by those scrolls in Israel, Europe and America. Yet the average person knows very little about those scrolls.

Prof. Goldman, who took an active part in those discussions and gave an outstanding proof of the authenticity and antiquity of the Dead Sea Scrolls, will lecture about their importance for the Bible research.

• Reception

Rabbi Dr. & Mrs. I. Rapaport attended the Reception at the National Gallery last week arranged by the State Government in honour of the visit to Melbourne of His Excellency the Governor-General Sir William Slim.

• Ball

AJAX's 2nd annual Mardi Gras Fancy Dress Ball at Coconut Grove on Wednesday was enjoyed by all present, but generally not quite as successful as last year's. Ajax members and friends present proved a most hilarious crowd and the only time the announcer could make himself heard above the din was when about to give progress scores of the Test at Lord's. Heard Ajax cricket vice-captain Ben Sternfeld during England's 4th wicket stand mumble something about "off-spinners" and "rubbish." (Report and pictures next week).

Glubb Pasha's Version of Incidents Along Israel-Jordan Border

LONDON, (JTA): In a statement issued in Amman on June 18, General Glubb, British commander of the Jordan Arab Legion, gave his own version of the situation along the Israel-Jordan border. (Israeli reaction to this statement was reported in our issue last week Ed.)

General Glubb: "The Israelis, while perfectly aware that their own terrorists were responsible for the various outrages committed recently, nevertheless made use of these incidents to endeavour to bring discredit on Jordan."

"They even went so far as to personally conduct British, American, French and Turkish diplomatic representatives to the scene of crimes committed by Jewish terrorist organisations, claiming that they were the work of Jordan infiltrators."

TEL AVIV (JTA): One Jewish watchman was killed and a second seriously wounded by Arab infiltrators in an ambush at Beth Neqofa, near Kiryat Anavim.

The watchmen were patrolling the area around the settlement when they were shot down by a hail of automatic rifle fire.

A police detachment accompanied by United Nations observers, using bloodhounds followed the tracks of the marauders to an Arab border village. There, local "national guards" refused to allow the United Nations observers to continue their trail of the murderers.

DEALING WITH INCIDENTS

General Glubb: "With hardly even a pretence of co-operation the Israelis have combined delay in notifying alleged attacks with prolonged procedural obstruction of the investigation machinery."

TEL AVIV (JTA): Summarising the results of the agreement between Israel and Jordan for dealing with border incidents signed a fortnight ago, an Israel military spokesman pointed out last Thursday that, while Israel's local commanders have full authority to deal with incidents occurring in their areas, the Jordanian representatives on the committee of local commanders have no power at all for dealing with incidents.

They have to consult with their superiors on all matters and thus results in continuing infiltration activities.

GLUBB'S ASSESSMENT

In a statement to the New York Times, General Glubb declared that territorial ambitions was the most serious of four possible motives behind what he described as recently stepped-up Israel provocations and false propaganda.

The three others were: psychological release of an urge to bully others after having been bullied for centuries; endeavour to maintain the flow of financial support from the United States; and an attempt to silence or reduce criticism by the political opposition within Israel during a period of financial crisis or internal unrest.

Commenting on this statement, an Israel military spokesman said it would be far better were Glubb Pasha to concentrate on restoring law and order "in his country" than attempting an analytical study of the psychology of Israel.

LEBANESE ARREST THREE SUSPECTS

TEL AVIV: Following last Thursday's meeting of the Israel-Lebanon mixed armistice commission, it was stated that the Lebanese authorities had arrested three people suspected of being responsible for recent incidents inside Israel territory.

ATTEND TO YOUR BLUE BOXES NOT ONLY WHEN THE J.N.F. COLLECTOR CALLS, BUT DO SO EVERY WEEK, EVERY DAY.

British - Built Jets with Israel Airforce

TEL AVIV, (JTA): The first official announcement that British-built jet-fighters are flying with the Israeli Airforce was made by a military spokesman here.

The number of such aircraft operational was not revealed.

Israeli pilots were sent to Britain for training in flying jet aircraft.

U.S.A. State Dept. Testimony on Israel Made Public ISRAEL CIRCLES DISMAYED

WASHINGTON, (JTA): The Israel authorities are seriously concerned over the implications of previously secret State Department testimony on Israel which was released recently by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

PUTTING ISRAEL'S HOUSE IN ORDER

Representative John M. Vorys said that Congress helped establish Israel, "but we never voted to have a Government and people in a country that we recognised simply take somebody else's property."

Congress, he added, had not committed itself to "throw out a dispossessed people, take their land, take their property."

HOSTILITY

Arthur Z. Gardiner, politico-economic advisor to the State Department's Near Eastern division, raised many points against Israel, while a number of committee members displayed similar hostility.

Alleging that there is less land under cultivation now than when the Arabs tilled the soil, Gardiner said:

"Now, if you listen to the Israeli propaganda line, and let us call it that because that is what it is — they should know, they have doubled and trebled production."

"But anybody with two eyes in his head can go through Israel and see abandoned orange groves and see other abandoned lands that are not cultivated."

ISRAEL MIGHT WANT ARABS BACK TO WORK THE LAND

When criticism was made of Jewish farmers, Gardiner told the committee that Israel might want the Arab refugees back to work the land, "if you do not talk about it too much."

Technical co-operation administrator Stanley Andrews pointed out that the new arrivals in Israel "just do not know how to farm."

Representative Frances P. Bolton interjected: "They are interested in business," adding that the "orchards were good where the Arabs owned them."

"I was amazed because I had been filled with propaganda that people in my district had given me that the Arabs did not know anything and could not farm."

NOT ACCORD WITH HIS MORALS

Gardiner, continuing his testimony, said: "It would not accord with my morals to say 'Arabs, you go live in Jordan.'

"We have moved people from Europe and, remember, we have plans in Israel to use substantially all the Jordan waters so that Israel can become viable."

He commented that Israel's argument that the Arab refugees were a potential fifth column represented a "party line".

Speaking of the movement of Arabs from Israel, Gardiner said: "I could not exculpate completely the Jewish people for their hand in this event." He mentioned in this connection "massacres of Arabs" by the "Stern Gang".

In response to his questions about the military prowess of the Israel Army, Henry A. Byroade, Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs, praised the efficiency of the Israel Army.

John D. Jernegan testified as Acting Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs that, "while it would not initially be possible to include Israel in the same defence organisation with the Arab states, we would undertake to make parallel arrangements with Israel and that country's requirements and potential contribution to Middle East defence would receive full consideration."

PRAISED ARAB LEGION

Gardiner had high praise for the Jordan Arab Legion. He said: "The Arab Legion is a very stabilising force in this area. Without that force, I do not know what you would have."

Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles both testified before leaving the United States on their tour of the Middle East.

Stassen told the committee that the Arab refugee problem was one of the reasons for his Middle Eastern trip with Dulles. "One of our top objectives," he declared, "is peace between Israel and the Arab states."

The Secretary of State testified on the importance of promoting Israeli-Arab peace "and in establishing a regional defence organisation."

His statement differed from the subsequent testimony of Assistant Secretary Jernegan on the subject of parallel approaches to Israel and the Arab states for perfecting regional defence.

PLAN FOR ENTIRE AREA

Of the concept of Middle East defence embodied in the Mutual Security Agency Bill, Mr. Dulles said that "we believe that that area can best be treated as a whole and that it is not very realistic to think of building defence within that area against possible Soviet aggression, let us say, as long as the area is torn by conflict and, indeed, a technical state of war within itself."

"We hope that with the discretion which would be allowed us if this legislation is passed in the form proposed to initiate a programme for the entire area which would include, among other things, the prospect of peace between Israel and the Arab states, and that would provide a foundation upon which a more dependable defence structure could be erected than under present conditions."

The Secretary of State noted that the bill contained "negotiating power" towards the end of Middle Eastern defence. It was revealed by the publication of the hearings that a sum of $140,000,000 is proposed in economic aid for Israel and the Arab states, including $10,000,000 for Iran. This would leave $130,000,000 and, if Israel got half of this figure, it would amount to $65,000,000.

EAST GERMAN RADIO RENEWS ATTACKS ON

"Imperialist Agencies Such as Zionists"

Visitors at Mount Scopus College

On Wednesday, June 24, Mr. A. Feigin, Principal of Mount Scopus College, entertained several visitors at morning tea at the Junior School in St. Kilda Road.

Those present included Dr. S. Kallay, Director of Education for the Zionist Federation of Australia & New Zealand, Mr. S. Redelman, Secretary of Moriah College, Sydney, Mr. K. Geiger, President of the Parents and Subscribers Association of Mount Scopus College and the members of his newly elected executive.

The Principal, the Assistant Headmaster, Mr. S. Bromberger, and the President of the School Council, Mr. A. R. Samuel, conducted the visitors over the school, some time being spent in each classroom.

It was a most enjoyable experience for all the visitors who expressed their appreciation by promising full support for the College.

Capt. Shimon Hacohen Meets Study Group and Students Society

Only a person of Captain Shimon Hacohen's talent could have crammed in so many facts about Israel, historical, military, agricultural and industrial plus many jokes into the short address he gave to a combined meeting of Study Group and Students Society, at the "Y" on Thursday night, June 25.

Agriculture, he said, has developed at a terrific pace when great tracts of land became available for settlement after the war, e.g. there was already a great surplus of vegetables. Many of the settlements founded only a few years ago were already paying their way. The country more than doubled its Jewish population in the first few years of independence and this placed a great strain on its financial resources.

Nevertheless, colonisation and industrial development go on, since the spirit of the people is unbreakable. Israel now had a sizeable merchant navy, while in the industrial field the country produces a tremendous number of different articles.

The Negev he said, had great possibilities and already the kaolin, phosphates, etc. from there were finding their way into the economy of the country. The completion of plans to bring water from Galilee to the Negev, and also the discovery of artesian water, will enable the settlement of millions more there. Access to two seas (Mediterranean and Red Sea) enables trade with both East and West, and when peace comes with the Arab countries also this vast hinterland will be come available for the export of industrial commodities.

LONDON (WJA): After a break of several weeks, a Soviet controlled agency has resumed references to the Slansky trial and attacks upon "Zionists and Freemasons" who are enumerated as instances of "new imperialist agencies whose full extent had not been known previously."

These charges are leveled in a leading article published in East Berlin's "Neues Deutschland," and broadcast later by the Soviet controlled Berlin radio.

The leader commented upon a speech by Herman Matern, one of the leading officers of the East German "Socialist Unity Party," who in an address to the Party's Central Committee in Berlin, had spoken of the necessity to implement the Committee's decision on "the lessons from the trial of the conspiratorial Slansky centre," insisting that mere endorsement of Party decisions was of itself not sufficient.

It was the task of the leadership to take steps to ensure implementation of Party policy in all spheres and to bring the Party "to the highest level of vigilance and ruthlessness." The official decision on the Slansky trial was designed to that end. He called upon the meeting to "be the starting point of a new initiative which aims at raising the watchfulness of the Party consolidating its ranks even further and considerably intensifying its vigilance."

The most important step was to "purge the Party, the State, the economic machine and the leading bodies of the mass organisations of unreliable and confused elements."

THE PRAGUE EXPERIENCES

"Neues Deutschland" heads its leader: "No More Carelessness and Blindness towards the Enemies of the People."

The expulsion of Party leaders Franz Dahlem, Lena Fischer and Fritz Ullrich were the result of an "earnest desire to protect Party leadership from all possible enemy attempts at infiltration."

The Slansky trial had unmasked new imperialist agents whose full extent had not been known previously, such as the Zionists and the Freemasons.

It was largely due to the experiences of the 'Czechoslovak brother party' that the conduct of leading officials after 1945 was regarded more critically and viewed in conjunction with their "mistakes in the past."

The Central Committee's decision on the lessons of the trial emphasised that "certain periods in the life of a comrade must not be regarded in isolation from his activities as a whole."

Zionist Youth Council - Books Requested

The Zionist Youth Council of Victoria, co-ordinating the work of seven Youth Movements in this city (Betar, Banavim, Habonim, Hechalutz, Hashomer Hatzair, Bnei Akiva and Young Mizrachi), would like to enlarge its present library which has become hopelessly inadequate.

At present the library consists mainly of pamphlets and a few books, and it is in this latter field that there is such a great need. The Zionist Youth Council therefore calls on the Jewish Community to help enlarge its library by donating books on Jewish topics and thus aid the educational work of the youth movements.

Please send all books to the Zionist Youth Council, 77 Bourke St., or ring Central 4305 and they will be picked up by our chaverim.

Dutch "Finaly Case" White Book

AMSTERDAM (JTA)—The Executive of the Amsterdam Jewish Community is contemplating publication of a "White Book" in connection with the Dutch "Finaly affair".

State police recently carried out a search of a Catholic convent in an effort to discover the whereabouts of two twelve-year-old Jewish girls, Rebecca Melchado and Anneke Beekman, who have disappeared. The search proved fruitless.

GERMAN WAR CRIMINALS TO BE RELEASED IN NORWAY

STOCKHOLM (WJA): All German war criminals in Norway are shortly to be released.

Reporting this from Oslo "Morgen Tidningen," the Stockholm daily, adds that this has been greeted with sarcastic comments in the Norwegian press.

Protests were expressed by the Association of former concentration camp inmates in Norway.

The number of German war criminals in the country is said to amount to about twenty, among them Alfred Zeidler, ex-chief of the notorious Nazi camp at Grini.

Rosh Pinah Attacked by Arab Bandits

TEL AVIV: It was reported here last Wednesday that Arab bandits had made an attack on the village of Rosh Pinah in Upper Galilee.

A hand-grenade is said to have been thrown into a house causing injuries to a man.

Local guards repulsed the raid and the police are reported to have found tracks leading to the Lebanese-Syrian borders.

A Syrian boat captured in Israel territorial waters two weeks ago was released today and returned to the Syrian authorities.

USA Upsurge of Interest in Hebrew Language

ATLANTIC CITY (JTA): Hebrew scholars and educators from all parts of the country participated in the four-day convention of Histadruth Ivrit of America, Hebrew language and culture association.

The widow's claim for a pension was granted "since Heydrich's death was due to war consequences." The "Sueddeutsche Zeitung" sarcastically comments that if Hitler were still alive he would be given a pension "for the services rendered his country while he was Chancellor." of the organisation.

One of the sessions was devoted to the role of Hebrew in 300 years of Jewish settlement in the United States.

Samuel Borowsky, president of Histadruth Ivrit, reported that since the last annual gathering of the organisation there has been a marked upsurge of interest in the Hebrew language in the United States.

A resolution on education supported the extension of Jewish day schools by national and traditional boards of Jewish education and the establishment, by the projected Union of Orthodox congregations, of a seminary for training ministers.

The fund-raising resolution gave a mandate for continuation of the United Communal Fund which meets the joint budgets of the Deputies, national, orthodox and reform education boards, certain national, religious and cultural organisations. South African ORT and OSE and assistance to rural communities.

The resolution also provides for the allocation, from the next campaign, of a capital sum for the establishment of a pension fund for Jewish teachers.

There was a heated debate on Jewish youth work when a Zionist youth delegate contended that this must take an exclusively Zionist form.

Several university delegates opposed this and appealed for a broad scheme of youth work including Zionism.

The congress mandated the Board to work to the best of its ability in this field in collaboration with existing youth bodies.

NO ZIONIST INTENTION TO CAPTURE BOARD

Differences between exclusive Zionist emphasis and a wider communal interpretation of activities was also manifested in other matters.

Arising from pre-Congress lobbying and criticisms, S. M. Kuper, chairman of the Zionist Federation, issued a statement early in the debate saying that the Zionists had no intention of capturing the Deputies but, in fact, wanted the Deputies to remain the central organisation, fully representative of South African Jewry.

They felt duty-bound, however, to press their point of view and to canvass support for candidates for executive office whom they thought could usefully serve the community.

Chairman of the Board, E. J. Horwitz, and other delegates, pointed out that, in view of South African Jewry's being predominantly Zionist the majority of Deputies and executive members would inevitably be Zionist, and they disapproved of any idea for introducing a Zionist ticket or the semblance of a caucus in the work of the Deputies.

RABBINICAL FIGHTS DEPLORED

Criticism of the divisions and disarray among local Jewish ministers and a resolution expressing the community's concern at this, led to a heated debate in which Chief Rabbi Rabinowitz charged that the Board was undermining religious unity.

President A. I. Maisels refuted this with details of the Deputies' efforts over many years to strengthen religious life and promote a unified rabbinate.

ATTENTION!

A new Social and Cultural Organisation has been formed at Samuel Meyers Hall, for youth of 16 and over known as

"NOARIM"

It meets every 2nd Sunday, starting July 5th. Activities include: Dancing, Table Tennis, Debates, Lectures, Dramatic-Musical Evenings, Quizzes, Fun for all.

Second Era in Israel's Life

By SOLOMON ITZHAKI

BLACK MARKET VANISHED

The black market almost completely vanished out of sight and due to an acute shortage nobody could afford some of the luxuries previously enjoyed. The black-marketeers embarked on an almost cut throat competition with each other, thus gradually reducing their own prices to the official price level...

Great significance may also be attached to the fact that manufacturers have considerably improved their products in complete contradiction to their methods in preceding years when even the most inferior wares could easily be marketed.

It thus follows that the shoes and shirts the Israeli buys at the present moment can boast the finest quality of materials.

Even here as in other segments of the economy one is conscious of a revolutionary upheaval and vicissitudes that mark the beginning of a new and more normal era.

One cannot quite exhaust the list of pertinent topics without dwelling somewhat at the very important issue of exit-visas from Israel. Mr. Israel Rokach, the Minister of Interior, has recently announced that so many of our brethren in the Diaspora persisted to regard Israel as a sort of a trap which one could only enter but not leave.

While this happens to be a gross misrepresentation of the actual situation, one cannot help feeling that thousands of Israelis sometimes viewed their own country as a trap.

The granting of an exit-visa was involved in great difficulties, and many months would elapse before one could even be notified of a decline.

Such a situation was often the cause of tragical incidents which were coupled with flagrant cases of corruption wholly commensurate with the various effects of infringing upon a citizen's rights and liberties in the other parts of the world.

It was obvious that some important circles maintained the view that no Jew was justified in leaving the country under the existing circumstances.

There were of course other important motives such as by permitting free exit, large scale smuggling of currency would be abetted and greatly facilitated.

HARDSHIP AT END

This period of hardship is now wholly at an end, and an Israeli citizen may no longer be perturbed by such unpleasant intricacies and obstacles as the actual granting of the permit is now merely a matter of a few moments.

He is referred to the appropriate official who immediately proceeds to affix the necessary stamp to his passport which would enable his legal exit from the country.

The applicant is thus granted the exit permit which would enable him to immigrate aboard or leave for a short time provided he has complied with all the regulations of Army enlistment and paid his taxes.

One of the members of the Knesseth, Dr. Z. Wahrhaftig, Under Secretary for Religious Affairs was the only one to oppose this measure, and a Tel Aviv daily ("Haboker") consequently directed a sharp personal invective in the following words:

"Since you propose to force the citizens of Israel to stay within their own borders, what would be your possible reaction to a similar decision taken by other countries strictly prohibiting their own residents to leave abroad?..."

No reply was given to this logical question.

What has actually taken place, as far as exit-permits were concerned, was a most fundamental change in the psychological approach to things in general, as the actual conditions, such as the security factors or smuggling events of international significance, such as the election of President Eisenhower, the anti-Semitic and anti-Zionist attacks of the Communist countries, the cutting of diplomatic relations between Moscow and Jerusalem, the death of Stalin—have affected to an enormous degree the international policies of the world as well as the foreign policy of Israel.

Such ideas were voiced by Prime Minister David Ben Gurion in the recent opening session of Journalists convention in Tel-Aviv, and although according to Mr. Ben Gurion such events as the death of Stalin and the severing of relations between Israel and the USSR would offer no serious impediment in Israel's steady course, one may safely deduce therefore that the mark the end of Israel's neutrality period or in Mr. Sharett's wording "Israel's Non-Identification Policy."

There remains therefore no other course open but the tightening of bonds with Washington.

There is of course no danger or hazard in such an approach, at least at the present moment.

It also seems, that Mr. Sharett's far-reaching and courageous schemes of an alliance with the people of Asia, and the "establishment of a Third World Power," are also vanishing simultaneously.

Last but not least, one would have to mention, as a further illustration of the new reality, the different attitude of Israel to the Jewish people in the diaspora, and especially to organised Zionism in the USA and other countries.

A gradual change of value is discernible in this vital sector.

Some of the ill-conceived and deleterious censures directed from Israel can no longer be heard.

It is quite obvious, that after 5 years of Independence, Israel can in no way wholly rely upon the support and succour of a foreign country, but she can, on the other hand, rest assured that World Jewry as especially American Zionists with its brilliant leadership would not fail her.

One could recently hear the constant reiteration of such mottoes as "Israel must go back to Zionism!"

This is no mere plethora of contradictory statements as the Zionist ideal here in Israel was already fully achieved and realised; the young generation considers the word "Zionism" a mere high-sounding resonance that covers up a lack of action or something that denotes "many words and little deeds."

The marks and symptoms of the new period in the above field are also evident, and one may undoubtedly expect that in the near future there would be a recurrence of some of the things that were witnessed in the stormy, historic days of the end of 1947.

It is quite certain that greater potency will be given to the argument that the American Zionist Organisation can in no way obstruct the functioning of the Israeli Embassy in Washington or vice-versa.

The leaders of the two parties are activated by a fervent, un-artificial and authentic sincerity letting some of the serious clashes and discrepancies of the last 25 years drop into oblivion.

It is true, that some of the rank and file members of both parties cannot quite put up with the positive of the new situation, and yet it won't be long before they themselves will be completely engulfed by the strong tidal current of the changes that have taken place in the State.

The manifestation of the new period is also clearly evident in the entire field of Israel's foreign relations.

Expected to Middle East

By Major E. LASERSON (Israel)

The Middle East Defence Organisation will soon become a reality, and so the protracted visit of John Foster Dulles, American Secretary of State to the Middle East, accompanied by top-level political, financial and military advisers is yet another piece of evidence, proving the great strategic importance attached to this area by those who determine the world situation as well as their intention to find an early solution to the strategic problem of the area.

BRITISH SEE MAJOR FRONT IN ME.

The growing military strength of Britain and the advent of Churchill to power, have made the British turn the Middle East again into a major front in the conflict of the future.

Although Israel is to some extent "provincial" or "isolationist" as a result of her great problems and continuous effort on the home front, her population is realistic enough to look straight at inevitable decisions.

FIVE FACTS DOMINATE SITUATION

In addition to the Dulles visit, there are four significant events which characterise the urgency of the situation now developing in the Middle East.

They are the impending Anglo-Egyptian conflict over the Suez Canal Zone, the arrival in Israel of a Yugoslav military delegation, the conference of the Arab Chiefs of Staff at the end of June and the recent speech of Sir Winston Churchill, describing Israel as the strongest local force in the Middle East.

All these five developments characterise a complex situation, where the United States, already convinced of the importance of the area is still reluctant to put forward definite plans or to make clear commitments. Where Britain seems to be the only great power with clear proposals to make, but not yet enough real power to carry them out, where the Arabs are trying hard to carry on their traditional game of sitting on the fence till the very last moment and where the Near Eastern members of NATO are trying to establish contact with the only serious partner in the Middle East—with Israel.

FROM MOBILE TO PERMANENT BASE

Only a few years ago, the United States had no strategic interest in the Middle East and the British had no power to hold it.

British defence plans officially admitted that East Africa formed their nearest line of defence.

The growing strength of the NATO powers, and the build-up of the Turkish-Yugoslav-Greek flank of the Middle East, based on a powerful Middle - Eastern - Mediterranean fleet and air force, changed the picture to a great extent.

First came the doctrine of using the Middle East as a "mobile" strategic bombing base and possibly as a base for combined offensive air and land operations of the Commando type.

This strategy was plainly explained by such authoritative Western military publications as the Revue de Défense Nationale of Paris, over the signatures of some of the most prominent French military commentators.

In general, French military doctrine saw in the Middle East a spring-board for the launching of a Western counter-offensive against the most vulnerable section of the USSR.

It was quite clear that this was not the opinion of French strategists alone.

It is not quite clear, though, what the plans were in the event of a serious Soviet force trying to conquer the Middle East.

In this case, the defence plan may have been rather one of delayed action, mobile counter strokes, but no "all costs" opposition.

Defend

the Yugoslav Mission to Tel Aviv is being regarded as a possible feeler for a new solution: the formation of the MEDO without Israel and the joining of Israel to the already existing arrangement between Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey as a direct appendix to NATO, which will also act as a link between Israel and the Middle East organisation.

The main problem of the Middle East, of course, as far as World War III is concerned remains the question: how many troops will be used both sides, in this theatre.

Current estimates of the professional press, state that the USSR has not more than two and a half million men available to face the Middle East.

This force will be met by about 2 million Turks.

The rest of the balance will have to be made up of the Middle East Defence Organisation.

At any rate, not more than 250,000 troops could cross the desert and mountainous regions of Persia-Iraq, against existing potential opposition.

As outlined by British experts, transport difficulties make the use of a higher number of troops practically impossible.

This fact tends to leave the Middle East with a possibility of organising its defences during a breathes it might have at the earlier stages of a future campaign.

ISRAEL MUST MAKE CHOICE

One thing is clear: Israel will have to declare her policy officially in the near future.

Already aid from America is beginning to take the shape of direct military aid, almost exclusively.

What is more, unless Israel can get arms supplies, she will lose the race against the quickly arming Arabs.

What is Israel's greatest psychological problem, is the provincialism of the Israelis, who take little interest in world affairs and taken up by their own momentous problems, have grown "isolationist" to a great extent.

And while they are quite certain of their true sentiments in the world situation, direct clear commitments will need a thorough preparation of public opinion, and David Ben Gurion is facing in his country a home front situation somewhat similar to that faced by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the U.S.A. during the early stages of World War II.

Wanted—A New Foreign Policy

By A. ABRAHAMS—Political Advisor to the United Zionist Revisionist Org.

Judging from the enthusiastic reception in the Jewish Press throughout the world following Sir Winston Churchill's reference to Israel in his House of Commons debate—it is worth while uttering a solemn warning against any exaggerated interpretation of his words.

Unfortunately, in Jewish correspondents' reporting or interpreting the House of Commons debate, background facts were not provided as to enable the general public to assess and understand what is in the wind.

Above all, it should be known that the Prime Minister's words on Israel came as a great surprise to his own Party, and also as a shock to some of them.

The Foreign Affairs debate followed a routine meeting of the Conservative Party's Committee on Foreign Affairs, which was called to inform them of the line which Sir Winston would follow, principally the subject being a possible meeting with Malenkov; Korea; and of course Egypt.

Apart from the general lines of the speech, it was left to the Prime Minister to fill the outline as is usually the case with him.

A statement of such major importance if presented by Mr. Eden or any other Foreign Minister, practically the whole of the speech is usually gone over with a fine comb, so as to avoid risks or any tendencies to some sudden surge of enthusiasm on the part of the spokesman. But it is not the case with the present Prime Minister.

HE IS GIVEN A FREE HAND

In fact, it is true to say that Sir Winston's conduct of the Foreign Office was not regarded with happiness by his own Party when it was announced that he would look after Mr. Eden's ministry during his illness.

During his many years of parliamentary work, he has held every major Cabinet position, with the sole exception of the Foreign Office.

He has worked under Prime Ministers like Asquith and Lloyd George, but never was he looked upon as suitable for the Foreign Ministry; not because of inadequate capacity, knowledge or perspicuity.

But only because his approach to foreign affairs was always wide-ranging, with historical perspective, and tending to leap over the immediate obstacles with daring and not with the usual caution traditional in British foreign affairs.

It is not surprising, therefore to learn that the Prime Minister's unexpectedly generous references to Israel have produced deep dissatisfaction in an influential section of the Conservative Party.

If the Prime Minister were other than Sir Winston, this dissatisfaction would have by now risen to the surface, and it might even have produced a minor crisis.

Parliamentary Party meetings conducted within the precincts of Parliament, enjoyed the privilege of a closed session, so that a report of it is not usually allowed.

Consequently it is only by inference and occasional reference here and there, that it is possible to judge what occurred privately in the Conservative Party in advance of the Foreign Affairs debate.

Behind the scenes there had been for several months a smouldering rebellion against even any appearance of surrender to General Neguib's demands.

This applies not only to the question of the Canal, but also to any tendency to speed up the constitutional changes in the Sudan.

At one stage it looked as if the military chiefs were playing with the thesis that the Canal can no longer be regarded as a key in strategic position in the event of war.

But this did not last for long.

Some believe that they were for some time under the influence of the American mill-tary headquarters who still hold the view that it would be better to evacuate the Canal rather than possibly confront Arab disturbance behind the lines during military operations.

For a time also the Turks were drawn to the same point of view by the Americans, as the brunt of a Soviet attack would fall upon the Turkish army in the early period of hostilities, and it is they who would have to protect the area if the Arab Middle East remained unpacified.

But this point of view has since changed, for the Turkish generals treat the Canal, not from the point of view as a strategic waterway, but rather as a base for a concentration of troops and material for supplying Turkish and other forces holding a line far to the north.

The Conservative Parliamentary Party no doubt had under discussion the Dulles visit.

They were particularly annoyed and disturbed by the reports that Dulles had practically pledged to Neguib American support for exerting pressure on Britain.

The most far reaching activities in this respect were those of Mr. Cafferty, the American Ambassador in Cairo.

One would not even be surprised to learn one day that the meeting of the Arab foreign ministers was fixed to coincide with Mr. Dulles' visit and stemmed from the American Embassy in Cairo.

However, it was decided in London to prejudice the Dulles visit, and Sir Winston's speech came none too early for bringing about this result.

Moreover, Neguib unwisely played into his hands by bringing the talks with the British to a sudden close, thus justifying the British reaction, and producing a political vacuum in which Dulles could not stand or find any place.

Neguib did not prove to be a skillful or understanding statesman. He committed a major error in terminating his talks with Britain at that particular moment.

He based his action on the ground that if Dulles were to arrive in the continuing negotiations, the British might have a good case for non-interference by Dulles while the first stage was still proceeding.

Neguib believed that by bringing the crisis to a peak he would have good justification to exert pressure on Dulles, as otherwise the American visit would collapse at the outset, and Dulles would find his personal prestige destroyed after the much vaunted assertions of the results of his coming and probably triumphant tour.

Sir Winston therefore took the swift advantage, as soon as Neguib closed the door; the British Prime Minister turned the lock in it.

Therefore the tour of Mr. Dulles and his statements have been pitched on a minor key. A month ago he certainly had a sheaf of quite different speeches, ready for delivery in each of the Middle East States; certainly, for Israel he was ready with some radical proposals, sweetened with economic help which his colleague Mr. Stassen was to unfold.

But the whole story had to be re-cast. Now, he has finished his journey and has gone home. The "Times" honoured his return with an editorial, headed with a title, not without gentle mockery: "Twenty days wiser."

It is just like saying to Dulles, "you started off stupid but you have learned a little in those few days."

NEED FOR CAUTION

What comes next? Firstly as has been said at the outset of this article there is need for caution and guard against optimism.

We are in the midst of a stage of political Machiavellism.

Each side is playing with his own pack of cards.

Sir Winston's generous reference to Israel in his speech during the Foreign Affairs debate may mean nothing at all, and may yet mean quite a great deal if the Egyptian crisis should be intensified and lead to large scale violence and attempts on the British Forces.

At the present moment the British are at pains to demonstrate to the world that the Arab States, including Egypt, are of no military value.

Israel alone is being presented as the only State which can pull its weight and do a job in certain eventualities.

For the Arabs this represents an ultimate threat of a full-scale arming of Israel and its economic consolidation which might lead Britain to lean on Israel for maintenance of the Canal Base.

But this does not mean to say that the British Prime Minister has not yet committed himself to such a policy—far from it.

But in characteristic manner he has brought out his heavy political artillery, serving a warning on Neguib that in a short and sharp tussle his regime might be brought down to the dust.

INATTENTION WORDS USED

In Sir Winston's speech he made use of words to which sufficient attention has not generally been paid.

He looked forward to the fulfilment of Zionist aspirations.

What do these words mean? One would have thought that Zionist aspirations had not been fulfilled. In the mind of Eden these aspirations have been more than fulfilled, having gone beyond the earlier partition, with Jerusalem as the official Capital of the Jewish State.

The Prime Minister is an old student of the Bible.

He knows very well that the Zionist aspirations remain unfulfilled until Israel is fully restored within the historic boundaries, the land of the Ten Tribes.

But here again there is no room for optimism or exaggeration, for interpreting the Prime Minister's words as being yoked with realistic policy—at this stage.

It is merely a threat, to Neguib and the others, just as though the curtain had been drawn aside only slightly with a hint of what may be seen behind.

UNFOLDING OF POLICY

The unfolding of policy cannot be conducted by one side. Britain is well aware of Israel's technical and industrial progress as the only Middle East State in a position to complement British needs in that part of the world.

The British Press, in the past few days, has paid attention to the remarkable exhibition of Israel's military and industrial manufactures which would be of great value for the defence of the region and for servicing modern armies.

They have described new kinds of weapons which Israel has evolved, some of which might even be considered for use by modern States, and no doubt it has had a deep effect on military circles here.

Wanted -- A New Foreign Policy

The fact that Dulles did not find time to visit that exhibition during his short stay in Israel, shows that he is well aware of it and did not want to appear prejudiced in view of the remaining part of his journey to the other Arab capitals.

But a full report has no doubt gone to the State Department for whatever it may be worth.

ONLY PASSIVE PARTNER

The main point is that although policy seems to be unfolding and giving a hint of quite a new picture, Israel still remains only a passive partner, or rather an object of events.

We have to ask ourselves what practical steps or measures, what new initiative which is to be designed at this particular juncture.

The mere prattling, the endless repetition of our desire to achieve peace with the Arab States, to suggest possible concessions or to talk of a hundred years guarantee against overstepping the frontiers—all of this is less than useless.

It means nothing; it is not regarded as of any significance.

Even more, such partners as might be drawn into a new policy with Israel cannot be happy that Israel has not revealed any forthright measure or intention which might help to transform the situation for themselves and for us.

There are two key problems which suggest a quite new departure of policy for Israel. One problem is that of the destiny of Jordan; and the other the strategic plan of defense of the Middle East.

TIME FOR DECISIVE POLICY

With regard to the question of Jordan the time has come for decisive policy.

Unhappily Israel's leadership of its Foreign Ministry has become moribund without a new idea and without a new flash of thought.

Sharett, Eban and Eytan are rolling along on their old creaking wagon, repeating their old speeches, and their well-turned phrases.

They are trying to cash-in on that something that occurred five years ago—the defeat of the Arabs and the restoration of the State.

The realities of 1948 are no longer cogent for exchange in the political market.

Only new departures can produce new results, enabling us to break out from our territorial and economic isolation, and ascend a further rung on the ladder.

For Britain, Jordan poses an extremely difficult and complicated problem.

Czechoslovakia Generous to Germans

LONDON (WJA): Granting of Czechoslovak citizenship to German nationals resident in the Republic has been reported by TASS, the official Soviet News Agency, which presented a brief summary of the subject from the Czech periodical "Mlada Fronta".

The article stressed that the Czechoslovak National Assembly had approved the necessary Bill "in view of the fact that the majority of Germans residing on Czechoslovak territory have participated actively in building the foundations of socialism in the Republic. Many Germans, it was added, had been given awards for their good work."

It may be noted that there was no comment in Prague radio's Home Service on the subject. The fullest account of the relevant Act was given in Prague radio's German service. The Home Service merely referred briefly to a "Bill by which certain persons acquire Czechoslovak citizenship."

It cannot evacuate, and knows that every month brings nearer the same demand from Jordan as has come from Egypt.

The profit that Britain gleans from its virtual occupation of Jordan is similar in a sense to Britain's occupation of the Canal.

But Britain's tenancy of Jordan is much more difficult and uncertain, if only for the geographical seclusion of the territory. Jordan's hostility to Britain is now being watched closely in Whitehall. The recent arrival in Amman of Jamal Husseini has created quite a stir here, and the subsequent anti-British statements in the Jordan Parliament are attributed to the Mufti who is employing Jamal—his nephew and former Secretary of the Arab High Committee of the Mandatory period.

Jamal has now been appointed adviser to Ibn Saud and his finger may be recognised in quite a number of things, particularly in the effort to link up the Arab States with the Egyptian demand for evacuation with the coming demand of Britain's evacuation of all of this is less than useless.

It means nothing; it is not regarded as of any significance.

Even more, such partners as might be drawn into a new policy with Israel cannot be happy that Israel has not revealed any forthright measure or intention which might help to transform the situation for themselves and for us.

There are two key problems which suggest a quite new departure of policy for Israel. One problem is that of the destiny of Jordan; and the other the strategic plan of defense of the Middle East.

SOVIET CONCESSIONS CAME TOO LATE...

Berlin Riots Reveal Tense Struggle For Power Inside Germany

(S.J.N. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

BONN: The brief announcement last week from Karlshorst (Soviet) headquarters in East Berlin that a West Berlin resident had been executed by a firing squad on charge of organising the recent anti-communist riots in Eastern Germany reveals the underlying tension between the political forces struggling for power in the "Thousand-Year-Reich."

Whereas the Soviet High Command's allegation that the West Berlin residents had worked under orders of a "foreign power" may be discarded as so much international mud-throwing, the charge that a West German citizen took a leading part in the disturbances is not surprising.

West Germany is known to have its own "trouble-makers" political elements who, with or without official knowledge are hitting back at communist imperialism.

They have variously been described as an underground movement or as a League for the protection of human rights, or as a semi-military organisation and so on.

GUERILLA FORCE

Last year the Hessen State Government alleged this group had received American arms, finance and permission to act as a guerilla force in the event

Underlying all these activities is the burning hatred every German feels of the Russian occupiers.

It is not difficult to cross into East Berlin from West Berlin via Potsdam Square or the Brandenburg Gates and start a demonstration among hundreds of thousands of people who enviously stare at luxury laden West Berlin food and textile stores and who know that their worthless eastern currency hardly buys a loaf of bread.

NO PAY FOR HARDER WORK

What really touched off last week's Berlin, Dresden, Magdeburg and Leipzig riots, however, will not be known for a considerable time, because Soviet tanks and machine gunners have built up a very effective censorship.

Undoubtedly, the latest revelations of Communist rule had something to do with the disturbances. The Russians accompanied their "more freedom announcements" of early last week with instructions for a ten per cent increase in production without extra pay.

That, apparently, was the straw that broke the camel's back.

In an article last Friday, headed "Storm Signals in Soviet Germany," the liberal London "Economist" details various "straws" that helped the camel to break its back.

Says the "Economist": "The concessions that have been announced by the Socialist Unity Party in Eastern Germany are, in the first place, a forced admission of weakness.

"It is no longer possible to hide the effects of terrorism, the collectivisation of farms and galloping inflation."

In Eastern Germany the Communist system is laid bare to western eyes as the stream of refugees pour over with their tales of misery and oppression; yet the Soviet Zone was intended to be the model and magnet for Western Germany."

The "Economist" claims that the hurriedly announced concessions and reforms were designed to plug the flow of refugees and to lure back the producers—particularly farmers and technicians.

CONCESSION "TO LATE"

The new Soviet measures, designed to relieve the precarious economic position in Eastern Germany include such steps as improved State-Church relations, more credits for private traders, halting of farm collectivisation and a general amnesty for prisoners who were sentenced to terms of up to three years detention for crimes against the State.

Last week's riots showed that the concessions came too late: German hatred of Russian occupation methods, in addition to some good organisation by political elements hostile to the Government of the "Democratic Republic" made sure that there never will be any real understanding between "occupier" and "occupied."

The question remains: "Is West German political strength sufficient to help East Germans shake off the Red yoke? The answer is 'No.' But political opposition to Soviet Communism in both East and West Germany is sufficiently powerful to be organised into an effective auxiliary force on the side of the West in any future conflict with Russia."

ALL-ROUNDER

Sunday's North v. South football match at Ferntree Gully will see youthful Ajax allrounder Sam Komesarook in yet another role. Together with Don Finkelstein and Ben Alexander, Sam Komesarook must rate among the most versatile Jewish sportsmen in Victoria.

Prominent as Ajax and Vic Interstate batsman and keeper, Sam has also met with success in lacrosse (for Malvern) and tennis. He plays table tennis and swims for recreation, and his fine performance at centre for South in last year's North v. South match has earned him the same position again.

ON WARPATH

Hakoah table tennis section chairman and veteran player Kurt Deffris has been on the warpath "gunning" for his stars Barney Peters and Ben Alexander following last week's Hakoah 5-6 A grade pennant defeat at the hands of St. Kilda Cricket Club.

Hakoah had every chance of downing the premiers but some "loose" play from Peters and Alexander infuriated Mr. Deffris, who was present to witness the match.

Peters suffered an early reverse when beaten by Reg Summers, but cannot be solely blamed for that, as Summers is still ranked 5th in the State and any topline player is likely to have an "off-day."

Alan Vermont further justified his high Maccabiah team ranking by beating Summers, but—according to Mr. Deffris—was blessed by Peters when going for a winner in his rubber against St. Kilda's L. Phillips, and promptly lost concentration to lose 20-22 in the 3rd game.

The Hakoah chairman was not at all happy with Peters' play on the night, and expressed his opinion in no uncertain manner. He was also most vehement in slating Alexander's poor play and stated that he would have no hesitation in dropping Alexander from the team unless that player put more into his game, practice and matchplay.

HAKOAH SPLIT?

Decision of Hakoah's soccer section to withdraw (temporarily, at least) from the Judaean League and Ajax should meet with the approval of all concerned.

Although not finalised this move was mooted at last week's Judaean League executive meeting. Suggestion is that other sections (men's basketball and table tennis) will continue within the League and AJAJ as Hakoah Sports Club, while the soccer section will carry on as Hakoah Soccer Club.

After the meeting Mr. J. Skolnik, Hakoah president and Judaean League vice-president, stated that this split was the only satisfactory way to carry on while Hakoah cannot field an all-Jewish soccer side "to satisfy all our critics, particularly Dr. H. Ruskin!"

SOCER GAME FOR MACCABIAH

Sydney's leading Jewish soccer team Hakoah is to play another leading side in a special game, all proceeds going to Australia's Maccabiah team fares fund. It was originally planned for the Hakoah team to meet Progress S.C. (another Jewish soccer team) for this purpose, but as the latter cannot comply with Hakoah's stipulation to field an all-Jewish side for this occasion, another club is being approached.

A game between Melbourne Hakoah & another leading 1st division club for this fund would draw an enormous crowd.

SKY WAS THE LIMIT !!!—

Interstate Player Leaves Court in Huff

By HANS LIGHT

After craning his neck and chasing lobs and tosses for two sets, interstate carnival player Ivan Saffer would not shake hands and left the court in a huff last Sunday.

Partnered by left-hander Hymie Goldblum, Saffer had just been beaten 5-7, 6-0, 6-3 by Harry Brown-Ralph Spivak in a doubles quarterfinal of the Victorian Jewish tennis championships at South Australian T.C. courts.

WINNING TACTICS

Brown and Spivak, a well-performed pennant and tournament pair, had been seeded 7th in the doubles and their opponents—Victoria's unbeaten No. 2 doubles pair in Perth matches last Carnival—were seeded 3rd.

After narrowly dropping the 1st set 5-7, Brown and Spivak obviously decided to go for their opponents' weakness on the day—overhead.

Although he puts his share away, Goldblum is rarely happy chasing lobs, but his partner Saffer is as a rule reliable and at times severe overhead. Brown and Spivak tossed and lobbed for the last two sets with mixed purpose, as their opponents were chased out of position and were forced into numerous smashing errors.

ANNOYED

Saffer & Goldblum seemed annoyed at these spoiling tactics & while the latter adopted the only way out—letting the lob drop for driving returns—Saffer continued to smash erratically with the temperature obviously rising fast.

To see four players, in a doubles stuck to the baseline is very rare nowadays, but the sight of two at one end lobbing and half-tossing their drives with the "Wool flying" up the other end was strange indeed.

It wasn't a good spectacle as a match, but the winning pair's tactics paid off under the circumstances.

PAIRS SURVIVE "FRIGHT"

Supplying most of the fire works himself for a change, Harry Ernest "stole the thunder" from partner Stan Kennett in their doubles quarterfinal win over juniors R. Sharpe-N. Sackville.

With "Boss" Sluice, SJTC pennant captain, constantly at him and nursing him through some tight phases, Harry Stanton finally survived a bad patch of play in their 6-3, 7-5, 7-5 doubles quarterfinal win over "scratch" pair Fred Levy - Ben Alexander.

Sluice must rank as one of our best doubles players and with Stanton in happier form this pair seems set for the doubles final.

Brilliant play and monotonous paddling exchanges provided some strange contrasts in the remaining doubles quarterfinal in which 4th seeded pair Elias Honig-Monty Rudov scrambled home 6-1, 3-6, 7-5 from Leon Haskin-Phil Benjamin.

YOUNGSTERS WIN

Junior title finalists Leon Cohen-Pamela Levy (unseeded) provided the upset of the day in beating 4th seeded H. Goldblum-Mrs. Berenholz 6-3, 7-5, to enter a mixed doubles semifinal.

All four seeded players in the women's singles have reached the semifinals without dropping a set.

Leah Ernest, although beaten by teammate P. Levy, again impressed with her fine play and sound counterplay for one so young, but badly lacks a forcing serve and more reliable backhand.

NO PLAY

All play in the titles has been suspended by AJAJ for this weekend, as the annual North v. South (of the Yarra) football match is to be played at Ferntree Gully on Sunday.

Play—semifinals in most events—will resume on Sunday July 12th.

SCORES

Women's singles—quarterfinals: M. Levin d. J. Kaufman 6-0, 6-1; I. Sutton d. R. Friedman 6-5, 6-1; P. Levy d. L. Ernest 6-3, 6-3; S. Simmons d. T. Green 6-3, 6-5.

Men's doubles—2nd round: E. Honig-M. Rudov d. N. Rose-S. Segal 6-1, 6-4; H. Ernest-S. Kennett d. J. Isaacs-E. Browne w.o.

Quarterfinals: Kennett-Ernest d. R. Sharpe-N. Sackville 6-1, 6-2; Honig-Rudov d. P. Benjamin-L. Haskin 6-1, 3-6, 7-5; R. Sluice-H. Stanton d. B. Alexander-F. Levy 6-3, 7-3, 7-5; H. Brown-R. Spivak d. H. Goldblum-I. Saffer 5-7, 6-0, 6-3.

Mixed doubles—quarterfinals: H. Stanton-E. Vogel d. B. Isaacs-S. Simmons 6-1, 6-4; L. Cohen-P. Levy d. H. Goldblum-B. Berenholz 6-3, 7-5.

Junior singles—quarterfinals: R. Sharpe d. N. Sackville 6-1, 6-4; M. Rudov d. B. Frenkel 6-2, 6-2; K. Rubinstein d. J. Felman 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Special singles: H. Licht d. M. Kausman 6-2, 6-2; D. Rudin d. P. Kornan 6-2, 2-6, 6-3.

Kosher Meat: Racket or White Elephant?

in reserve, kosher butchers cannot do likewise because the kashruth-prescribed flushing of the meat makes its storage impossible!

Once the meat reaches the butcher shop, still other things crop up to push the price up further. These do not arise from the kashruth code, but from the customer of kosher meat.

For one thing, no treifah butcher shop of comparable size would dream of delivering so far and wide as the kosher butcher does. Yet the small size and wide dispersion of the kosher butcher's potential clientele forces him to deliver if he is to stay in business. Up goes the overhead!

CONTINENTAL CUTS

The other thing is that kosher customers insist on "continental" meat cuts which are far more wasteful of meat than Australian-style cuts. And our Yiddish-speaking mamas will also insist on their piece of liver and their piece of ox-tongue, so that the butcher usually has to kill extra animals just to get those extra tongues and livers etc., while re-selling at the usual loss the remainder of the animal to the treifah butcher.

How mightily this "continental cut" matter adds to the cost of kosher meat can be seen when you compare the prices of treifah continental butchers with those of other Australian butchers.

What does all this add up to?

COST RIDDLE

It means that the butcher, not the Kashruth Commission bears the brunt of the extra cost of kosher meat. The actual amount of these costs only the butchers would know. At one stage the Kashruth Commission got a Public Accountant to investigate the costs. He is still investigating.

And no wonder: if you think for a moment about the nature of some of these costs you will readily understand how complex it must be to separate the kosher element.

For the same reason the State Price Control authorities who keep a vigorous check on treifah butchers, keep aloof from kosher meat.

Our kosher butchers are of course fully aware of this situation which gives them virtual immunity from price control. Yet, if accused of overcharging they would probably claim that it is in their own self-interest to keep prices at a minimum.

They could also point out that over the last two years or so, three kosher butchers have left the trade, which does not suggest that it is particularly lucrative.

SUSPICION

But a Jewish community whose suspicions are constantly roused by the high prices it is forced to pay for kosher meat would like to know for certain whether they are being overcharged or not.

Many Jews expect the Kashruth Commission to act not only as a supervisor but also as a price-controller, a role which the Commission finds impossible to play under the present set-up.

The Kashruth Commission believes that if it were to employ the shochetim, it could then so re-arrange the whole system of supervision charges etc., that it could assess with some degree of certainty the various extra costs which the kosher butcher has to meet and pass on to his customers. Price control would then become possible.

OFFER TO CHOCHTIM

To that end the Kashruth Commission is trying hard to entice the shochetim to enter its employ, offering them very attractive terms, with security of employment, superannuation, etc. which is certainly a lot better than the conditions they enjoy at present.

The chochtim, however, organised as they are in their own little trade union or professional association (the so-called "Agudas the Shochtim") stubbornly refuse to yield to these blandishments.

It is believed that their puzzling attitude is due to the influence wielded by one die-hard in their small ranks.

RABBIS MUST HELP

If the rabbis concerned can be prevailed upon to throw their authority and prestige behind the Kashruth Commission's endeavours, these and many other difficulties besetting the Kashruth Commission in its task of helping the orthodox section of the community can be solved.

If all those concerned can and will forget the niggling differences between lay authority and religious authority—differences which are utterly alien to true traditional Judaism—then we may yet see the day when we have really efficient kashruth.

That will also be the day, when nobody will any longer doubt the fairness of our kosher butchers' prices.

THANKS

Mr. & Mrs. LEON JEDWAB wish to thank all relatives and friends for the lovely flowers, telegrams and good wishes, received on the occasion of the birth of their daughter. Would all please accept this as a personal acknowledgment.

Roundabout

ONE MAN HEALTH SCHEME

There are some fine people in this world. Heard the other day of a famous Jewish plastic surgeon in South Africa who brings over from Israel every year two people who need treatment. He pays their fares and treats them free of charge.

Other members of the community provide a "convalescent holiday tour" of the dominion before the patients return home to Israel.

STAR IN THE EAST?
Hollywood doesn't read this column — they thought of it themselves!

Ace producer Stanley Kramer has made a romantic film in Israel. It tells of a German-Jewish psychiatrist who becomes a juggler in Israel. Called "The Juggler" it is set among the hills of Judea. So far so good.

But we have, improbably, Kirk Douglas in the leading role, equally hard to imagine either as a psychiatrist or a juggler, and an Italian actress playing his Sabra light of love.

Why an Italian actress, no one knows; but perhaps we are lucky it isn't Betty Hutton or Rita Hayworth!

Whilst on the subject: a best selling "popular" novel set in Israel is a long time coming, isn't it?

We have lost so many of our Jewish children, either to Judaism because of Church "adoption" or by death at German hands.

We can't grow bitter about children like the Finaly children and turn our backs on our own.

Mrs. Frieze and her committee, quietly and earnestly, have made the Frances Barkman House a place of which the community can be proud. Let us help them to keep on keeping on!

Gottesmann Shows Class as Centre Forward HAKOAH'S 6-0 WIN

By "OFFSIDE"

Following his fine performances in recent weeks, centre forward Gottesmann really showed his class last Saturday as spearhead of Hakoah attack in the Dockerty Cup round at St. Kevin's Oval.

SOCER FIXTURES

Saturday

Hakoah v. J.U.S.T., 2.45

Olympic Park.

Maccabi v. Frankston, 2.45 Princes Park, players meet club rooms 1.30

Hakoah res. v. JUST res. 2.45 St. Kevin's Oval, players meet ground 2 p.m.

Maccabi Out of Cup

White Eagles scored a 5-0 win over Maccabi in the 2nd round of the Dockerty Cup series last Saturday.

First, open play marked the first half, in which the Maccas missed several scoring chances, with White Eagles leading 1-0 at halftime.

Issy Peters developed cramp in the thigh early in the 2nd term, and returned to the field after some minutes, but unable to kick or run proved a passenger for the remainder of play. Maccabi's handicap was further increased when centre forward E. Gold received a nasty kick in the ankle.

White Eagles scored 4 more goals in this half and ran out easy winners. Maccabi team was: B. Greenberg (goal); Diamond, Peters (backs); Breitberg; Jakubowicz, Hertz (halves); Migdalek, Oshina, Gold, Marks, Fisman (forwards). Next game, see soccer fixtures.

Maccabi reserves 2 drew with Northcote res. 2.

Reserves' Cup Round Win

A particularly rough first half marked the Hakoah v. Coburg soccer Reserve Cup round at St. Kevin's Oval last Saturday, won 5-1 by Hakoah.

Playing against the wind in the 1st half, Hakoah led 2-0 at the end of the term after goals by Tuck—off Sonreich's pass—and O'Neill. Lester missed a penalty kick before halftime.

Goals by Tuck, Byker and Sonreich followed after interval. Best players: Antman, Sonreich, Tuck. Teamline: Millott; Laskowski (c.), Autman; Vinzenzo, Lester, Tobias Sonreich, O'Neill, Higgins, Byker, Tuck.

E. Mendes Reaches Semifinal

Ajax Squash Club's Elizabeth Mendes reached the semifinals of the C grade singles in the Victorian Squash Racquets championships last week. Miss Betty Kay was beaten in the 2nd round.

In C. grade pennant last Saturday Ajax women's team defeated Flinders Lane 'Stars' by 3 rubbers to 1. Ajax 3-1; 127 d. Stars 1-6-100. E. Mendes won 3-0. S. Barkman lost 2-3. S. Elbaum won 3-1. B. Kay won 3-2.

Ajax plays Flinders Lane 'Stripes' at Moorabbin courts at 2.30 on Saturday.

Hakoah's "weak forwardline"—as quoted only last week by one "who knows"—played like a machine to give the "Blue-whites" a 6-0 win over 1st division side Yallourn, to enter the 3rd round of the Dockerty Cup, Victoria's soccer championship.

Many of those who witnessed the game voted Gottesmann—on his present form—as one of the State's best forwards; he and inside left Josef Knob scored three goals each.

At St. Kevin's Oval: 1.200. Hakoah teamline: Goddard (goal), Clarke, Mourka (backs), Maehrischel, Jack, Drummond (halves); Roubal, Kurzweil, Gottesmann, Knob, Roessler (forwards). Referee: Dawson.

Early Lead

Hakoah's early—after 20 minutes—2-0 lead seemed a comfortable position in first class soccer, but captain/coach Tom Jack wisely asked for renewed effort when the "Blue-whites" appeared likely to "rest on their laurels."

The opening goal resulted from smooth combination play of the forward line, with Gottesmann baulking his opponent and passing to Knob for a sure goal.

In the 18th minute inside right Jonny Kurzweil found Gottesmann with a quietly placed pass, and another "bullet" resulted, 3-0 and the best goal of the day, came up 5 minutes before halftime with Gottesmann cleverly dribbling his way through Yallourn's defense, and then smartly changing over from left foot to right for a powerful volly-kick straight into the net.

Hat-trick

Gottesmann, now in unbeatable form, secured the "hat-trick" within 5 minutes of commencement of play off Roessler's piercing pass from the wing.

5 minutes later Roessler, playing extremely well on his wing, came forward in a brilliant solo run, and passed to his inside, Knob, for Hakoah's 5th goal.

Yallourn seemed set to open their account when in the 20th minute of the 2nd term a penalty against Hakoah followed Jack's handling of the ball but Goddard saved brilliantly.

With 16 minutes to play, Knob came forward from the centre line with a sweeping solo to dribble past Yallourn's goalie for Hakoah's 6th goal.

In men's A grade Hakoah narrowly lost to premiers St. Kilda Cricket by 5 rubbers to 6. Alan Vermont defeated 5th ranked R. Summers, while Barney Peters lost to that player. Peters and Vermont beat 8th ranked Jeff Hallenbone, while Peters also beat L. Phillips.

(Hakoah A team—Mr. Defris' comments see 'News & Views'. In men's A grade Hakoah attack is "weak", as was actually stated publicly last week, seems absurd considering that the "Blue-whites" in their last 7 games since May 16th have scored 34 goals compared with 4 kicked against them.

With the exception of Kurzweil who was handicapped by a knee injury, all members of Hakoah's forward line played superbly last Saturday. Wingers Roubal and Roessler centred accurately and are fast regaining form and confidence after a quiet spell earlier this season.

Knob, claimed as South Australia's outstanding forward prior to transferring here, is showing fine understanding with his "neighbour" Gottesmann after only 2 games together and the latter is wasting less energy and effort since switched from inside right to the spearhead position.

As practically all this season, Karl Maehrischel was a tower of strength on the half-line, and together with Clarke and Goddard turned many Yallourn drives for goal back to his own forwardline.

Goals: Gottesmann, Knob 3 each.

DOESN'T KNOW!

Table tennis star Doris Shipp writes from Sydney this week, that her only indication of having been included in the Australian Maccabiah team for Israel has been from newspaper reports and an unofficial phone call from a JASA official.

Looks as though someone is falling down on the job?

Mrs. Laskowski Brilliant in Pennant Win

Mrs. Helga Laskowski played brilliantly last Wednesday to defeat former State title holders Evelyn Nichols and Judy Thompson in the women's A grade table tennis round between Hakoah and Damon.

COULD MAKE FOUR

Mrs. Laskowski's fine play, together with a singles win each from Mesdames Debris & Rosen and a doubles rubber by the Debris-Laskowski combination, gave Hakoah a 6-5 win over the well-performed Damon side, and could regain Hakoah a place in the "final four".

With the exception of the men's A team, all remaining (5) Hakoah teams hold prominent positions at or near the top of their respective grades.

In men's A grade Hakoah narrowly lost to premiers St. Kilda Cricket by 5 rubbers to 6. Alan Vermont defeated 5th ranked R. Summers, while Barney Peters lost to that player. Peters and Vermont beat 8th ranked Jeff Hallenbone, while Peters also beat L. Phillips.
